Dr. James A. Woodburn, of Indiana University, will deliver an address at the annual meeting of the Jackson County Historical Society to be held at the high school building tomorrow afternoon. PUBLIC TO FEEL BURDEN OF WAR

New Revenue Bill will Provide Many Means of Taxation to Raise Necessary Money.

POSTAGE TO BE ADVANCED

Unmarried Men with Incomes of $1,000 and Over will be Required to Contribute to the Fund.

If the new revenue bill which has been drafted by the sub-committee is approved by congress, nearly everyone in Seymour—and in the United States, for that matter—will feel the burden of raising the necessary money for the prosecution of the war.

The most important tax will be on business. This policy was decided on early by the committee and only the problem of assessing a fair and unhampering tax on business remained to be solved. To this end, the committee summoned treasury experts and went through rows and columns of figures.

The net result is a tentative decision to levy only one tax on business to take the place of all the three forms of taxes now levied. This is the excess profits tax and it will be levied to reach all corporations, firms, partnerships, etc.

Probably the next most important tax is the increase on mail rates. It

NEW LOCATION SUGGESTED FOR PROPOSED FLAG POLE

Objection to Second and Chestnut Streets on Account of Congested Traffic.

Although the location of the proposed permanent flag pole which was suggested by James Demas is left in charge of a committee composed of two councilmen and Mr. Demas, the Commercial Club and other organizations will likely be consulted before the location is finally determined. Some objection has arisen to the intersection of Chestnut and Second streets on account of the frequent congested traffic conditions at that point and several other places have been proposed by interested citizens. A good start has been made on the subscription fund to erect the pole and while it appears certain that the plan will be successfully accomplished, the exact location is yet in doubt.

The city library corner is one of the favored spots that have been suggested and another that meets with general approval is the northwest corner of the new postoffice lot. If it were located there the monument would be off the streets entirely and would be in front of the only building Uncle Sam owns in this city. Before it could be located on the postoffice site, however, approval from the postoffice department would have to be obtained. The list of contributors is found in another column.

Recruiting Office Regular Army
Corner Second and Chestnut Streets.

A Louisville dispatch says: The Rev. John Elmer Lord, formerly pastor of Christian churches at Brownstown, Ind., and Sesser, Ill., enlisted in the United States Navy here today as stoker. The minister requested to be started at the bottom and was assigned to the work of a third-class fireman, the hardest work in the navy.

"The cause of America," said the Rev. Mr. Lord, "in her war with Germany is the cause of God, and I want to work just as hard as I can. America has drawn the sword for humanity, and the Son of God has said the love of humanity is the basis of all worth-while religion." At the recruiting office examiners said the minister was one of the most perfect specimens of manhood they had ever run across. He is also a fine mental type, they said.

MOTORISTS MUST OBEY SPEED LAWS

Council Backs up Mayor and Police in Demanding That State Requirements be Enforced.

FLAG POLE COMMITTEE NAMED

Necessary Steps to be Taken to Protect Seymour from Woodstock Smallpox Epidemic.

A renewed effort is to be made by the police department in stopping automobile speeding through the streets and to enforce the state law. The police and the administration have been giving their attention to the matter, and at the meeting of the city council last night that body made it known that it would back the officials in their effort to break up the dangerous practice about which many complaints have been filed recently. The anti-speeding laws get attention each spring and for several years a few arrests have been made before the law is obeyed.

Councilman Hodapp brought up the matter last night and said that in his opinion the safety of the public demanded a strict enforcement of the law. He said that he thought there was considerable speeding and recommended that the police be instructed to enforce the state regulations. Mayor Ross said that he was glad to have the matter mentioned in council meeting but declared that the police at his instructions were giving the law their special attention now. In said that several cases are now being investigated. He said he believed that the law was being observed more generally at this time than at any other period in the history of the city.

"The police are on the job," the Mayor told the council. "We are

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT AND BATTERY ON OFFICER

Sim Bryant Alleged to Have Knocked Down Harry Fink, Member of Night Police Force.

Sim Bryant, West Brown street, is charged with assault and battery on Harry Fink, a member of the night police force, the fighting having been the outcome of an effort on the part of the policeman to take Bryant to the city jail and serve a warrant on him for an alleged violation of the dog license ordinance. The warrant was issued Wednesday night and when an officer went to Bryant's home to serve it on him he was notified that the defendant was fishing. As Fink was going to the police station Thursday night to report for duty he saw Bryant at the corner of Tipton and Walnut streets and told him to go to the police station so the warrant could be read to him.

Bryant is alleged to have questioned the authority of the officer to take him without first reading the warrant. Bryant is said to have knocked Fink to the ground. Bryant was tapped several times on the head with a mace. His scalp was cut and bleeding when he reached the police station. He was arraigned and pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. He pleaded guilty to harboring a dog without a license and was fined $1 and costs, amounting to $6 which was stayed.

FARM HOME BURNED

Family of Charles Smith Escape as Building Collapses.

The house on the farm of Charles Eshom of Medora, which is located three miles south of the town, was completely destroyed by fire at 3 o'clock this morning, the blaze starting from a defective flue. The house was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith and family, who were awakened by the smell of smoke and had only time enough to get out of the building before it collapsed. None of their furniture or household possessions was saved. Very little insurance was carried on the property.

Furniture upholstered and repaired. Work guaranteed. 203 South Chestnut. Phone 714.

UNTAGGED DOGS IN REAL DANGER NOW

Council Authorizes a Premium of 25 Cents per Head as Quick Means to Enforce Order.

OFFER OF INTEREST TO BOYS

Mayor Ross Announces that License Ordinance will be Impartially Enforced.

The city administration is in earnest in announcing that the ordinance requiring all dogs harbored within the city be tagged. It has made its position clear and there is to be no half-way enforcement of the ordinance. A dog must either wear a tag or the owner will be prosecuted. The police have been active in enforcing the ordinance and within the last few weeks sixty dogs have been disposed of and many others have been sent to places outside the city.

At the regular meeting of the council last night it was decided to establish a new method of enforcing the ordinance and a bounty of twenty-five cents was offered for each untagged dog that is brought to the police station. The administration and the councilmen believe that this premium will interest the boys of the city and it would not be surprising if a score or more of stray canines are secured impounded in the basement of the city building within a few days. The police have done good work in enforcing the ordinance, but they cannot pick up all untagged dogs without outside assistance. The offer of the bounty is expected to bring about the desired results.

Councilman Ley, champion of the ordinance which prohibited the keeping of dogs in the city limits,

INDIANA IS PREPARING TO TAKE WAR CENSUS

Governor Goodrich Will Appoint a Board of Conscription to List Men of Military Age.

Seymour men who are of military age are much interested in the announcement that Governor Goodrich is preparing to take a war census as soon as the conscription bill is passed by congress. A board of conscription will be appointed in each county and a registrar will be named in each precinct to take a poll of the eligibles. The Governor inquired at Washington just what the bill provided and his arrangements were made following a long descriptive telegram late Thursday.

The registration will be for one day, the date to be named immediately after the passage of the conscription bill. All men, within the age limits to be announced, will be required, under penalty for failing to do so, to report to the precinct registrars working under the direction of the county boards. The first call under the conscription bill would be for 500,000 men between the ages of 19 and 25 years. There are of course, considerably more than 500,000 men between these ages, but the registration will include all men of military age.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT TO BE PLACED ON WAR BASIS

Increase in Wheat Production and Lower Bread Prices Are Main Objectives.

By United Press

Washington, April 27---To combat the high cost of food stuffs, the department of agriculture is to be placed on a war basis. Increasing the production of wheat and lowering the price of bread are the main objectives. Department officials say this must be done soon and congress will be asked to pass legislation accomplishing it. With powers to handle the situation coming under its jurisdiction in the same manner as the war and navy department control matters under theirs the agricultural department would be immediately able to cope with such developments as the sudden boosting of bread prices, officials say.

By United Press. Amsterdam, April 27---Germany's submarine warfare is having its most successful period of operations, the German minister of marine told the reichstag committee today. ARMY BILL DEBATE ABOUT CONCLUDED

Senate and House Expected to Vote on President's Conscription Measure Tomorrow.

SENATOR JONES FOR THE BILL

Declares it is Necessary to Raise Big Army to Show Enemy the Futility of Prolonging War.

By United Press. Washington, April 27---The senate began today at 10 o'clock its concluding drive to put through the President's selective conscription plan for raising an army. The house began consideration of the army bill at noon.

Three great things "to convince the enemy of the futility of continuing the terrible struggle," are necessary, declared Senator Jones of Washington, favoring conscription, in the opening debate.

"We should first make ready an army of one million men. Second we should destroy throughout the nation the liquor traffic, and third, we should enfranchise our women," said Jones.

House debate approached the end this afternoon when Representative Kahn, of California, denounced the volunteer system and urged the passage of the conscription bill. Kahn, the ranking republican member of the house military affairs committee, supports the President in his conscription plan.

"In all our wars," said Kahn, "we have had among us those who opposed our entrance into the struggle and who put every obstacle in the way to prevent us from properly waging warfare in defense of the rights of the United States. The system which permits the volunteer to sacrifice his life and permits the shirker to remain at home is neither fair, just or democratic."

"America, after great patience, decided it was no use to wave a neutral flag in the shark's teeth. We have lost many ships, but German piracy brought in America and we are perfectly satisfied with the balance."

OFFICERS NAMED FOR LOCAL CHAPTER OF THE RED CROSS

Directors will Meet This Afternoon to Perfect Details of the Organization.

At a meeting of the citizens who are interested in the organization of the Jackson County Chapter of the American Red Cross Thursday afternoon the following officers were chosen:

The directors will meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Seymour National Bank to perfect the organization so that an active work can be started immediately. The Red Cross occupies an important place in the war preparations and is called upon for valuable service in time of conflict. Local people desired that this city contribute its share to the nation in this emergency and upon their petition the charter for the organization of the Jackson County Chapter was secured.

REPROACH HEAPED UPON STRIKERS IN GERMANY

Official Proclamation Says Instigators Will be Branded as Traitors to Country.

By United Press. Amsterdam, April 27---Bitter reproach for striking munitions workers and demands that they return to work, are expressed in a proclamation posted throughout Berlin today. Dispatches from the German capital quoted part of the proclamation as follows:

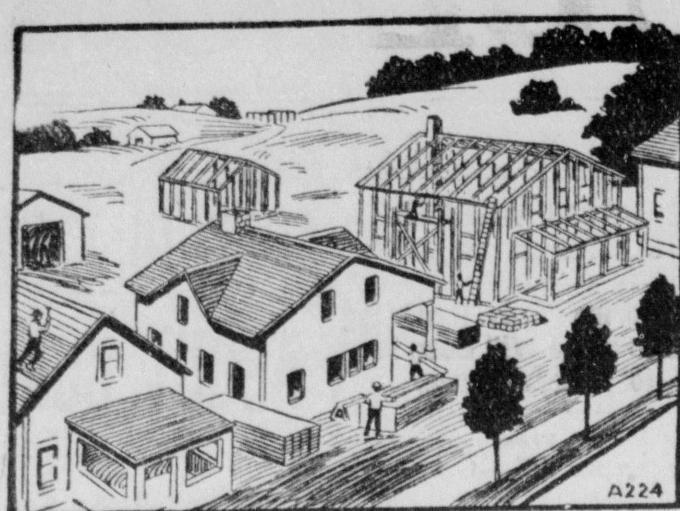

"The army needs munitions. Strike instigators must be branded as traitors and listeners to their word as cowards. The nation's existence is at stake."

THE HOME GARDEN

The Republican is conducting this column with the cooperation of the National Emergency Food Garden Commission to inspire the planting of more food gardens throughout the country. Members of the commission are, Charles Lathrop Pack, president of American Forestry Association; Luther Burbank, Dr. Frank M. Morgan, Prof. Irving Fisher, John Hays Hammond, Fairfax Harrison, Myron T. Herrick, Dr. John Grier Hibben, Emerson McMillin, A. W. Shaw, Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture; Capt. J. B. White, U. S. Shipping Board; James Wilson, former secretary of agriculture. You should watch this column every day. Any questions should be written on one side of the paper and sent to the Garden Editor of the Republican.

Parsnips

Fine words butter no parsnips, but fine soil makes parsnips grow well, says today's garden lesson from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission, which is aiding this newspaper in the campaign for more gardeners.

Parsnips require the whole season. Plant early in the spring, even as late as September they seem to have made a disappointing growth. However, the autumn rains mature them rapidly, and they are ready for use along in November. From then until spring the parsnips can be taken from the garden. The hard freezing of winter only improves their flavor.

Be sure to plant only fresh seed, for parsnips seed that is two years old is apt to have lost its life. Have the soil deeply prepared, for if it is hard or lumpy the roots will become branched. Sow a half ounce of seed to 100 feet or row making rows 18 inches apart. The two best varieties to plant are allow Grown and Student.

Parsnip seed is slow to sprout, and therefore it is well to mix quick-growing radish seed or cabbage seed in with the parsnip seed to break the crust of the ground. Often the success of the crop will depend upon breaking the soil with a rake after the planting, especially if rains form a dirt crust.

It is important that the thinning (to one plant every 2 or 3 inches) be done while the plants are yet small, because it is hard to pull them out when they are large.

While they may be left in the ground all winter, in northern climates it is better to harvest them late in the fall and store them in garden pits covered with earth. Pulling or spading them out is almost impossible. The best gathering method is to dig trenches on both sides of the rows and then pull out the plants.

Roots not used by spring should be pulled anyhow, because in the second season the old plants become weed-like, wild parsnips are supposed to be poisonous.

OIL AND TAR DAMAGING TO ALL GARDEN PRODUCTS

Fertilizer Collected From Streets is Injurious to Plant Life.

Those who use street sweepings to fertilize gardens should avoid manure that contains oil or tar. Either of these substances is harmful to plants, specialists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture warn. Sweepings from tarred pavements or oiled roads are likely to contain them. Oil droppings from motor cars often mix with such waste, also. If sweepings are collected with some care and before rain or water from street sprinklers have reached them and washed out the elements of fertilizing value, they can be used advantageously.

In connection with the spread of the city gardening movement, now popular throughout the country, the Department of Agriculture believes a warning in regard to oil and tar damage should be given. A specialist in the Bureau of Chemistry cites an instance of damage done to a garden near Silver Spring, Montgomery County, Maryland, on which unsorted street sweepings from the District of Columbia were used. This garden, according to the specialist, was ruined by the tar products in the fertilizer and it was necessary to remove the top soil and resurface the entire plot with new soil. It is suggested by this official that with some attention to detail it might be possible to collect sweepings from streets that are not tarred, and perhaps from other public places.

Quitting Work.

Mishawaka, Ind., April 26, 1917—Schuler C. Leslie, 721 East Fifth street, this city, is still on the job of elevator operator at the Mishawaka Woolen Mills Co., regardless of the fact that he once made up his mind to quit work because of his health. He thanks Tanlac for bringing back health that made work possible.

"Yes, I was going to quit," Mr. Leslie said on Nov. 3. "I had good reasons, too, for my stomach and liver were so out of order and I was bothered with rheumatism so much that work was getting to be out of the question. I had no ambition and just seemed to be without life at all. My back hurt me constantly."

"I'd made up my mind to quit work when friends persuaded me to try Tanlac. Well sir, this new medicine improved me so much in just a few days that I've changed my mind about quitting work and will keep right on the job. The rheumatism has disappeared; my stomach and kidneys are in good condition, and I'm just like a new person."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, nervousness, and the after effects of la grippe, pneumonia and the like.

OIL INSPECTION CASE BEFORE JUDGE ANDERSON

Attorneys for State Ask Federal Court to Make Temporary Injunction Permanent.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, April 27--Federal Judge Albert B. Anderson yesterday heard arguments on the question of making permanent the temporary injunction granted oil companies against enforcement of the state oil inspection law. Attorneys for the state asked that the injunction not only be made permanent but the temporary injunction be dissolved.

The temporary injunction was granted by three federal judges sitting en banc. The restraining order was granted on the grounds that the law was unconstitutional.

Five oil companies sought the permanent injunction. They were: Moore oil company, National refining company, Indian Refining company, Indiana Refining company and the Great Western Oil company.

The chief argument on the unconstitutionality of the law made by the oil companies, was that the inspection of oil cost the concerns more than the actual cost of the inspection—or the amount above the cost going into the general state funds.

Attorneys for the state contended that the law was reasonable and valid statutory enactment for protecting residents of the state against fraud and imposition and claimed that it violated neither the state nor the federal constitution.

They declared that the federal court had no jurisdiction in the case and that the act was not a revenue measure, as expenses of the collection totaled more than one-half of the fees collected. They pointed out that heavy hauling done by oil companies damages roads which have to be repaired at the expense of the state and that the state should receive some remuneration for this.

Next Monday, besides being the last day of April, has had other honors thrust upon it. It has been designated as Raisin Day.

Next thing we know some one will be suggesting a Prune Day.

Pity the poor ordinary days that aren't designated as some "special" day. It must be dreadfully dull and lonesome for them.

And the weeks are almost as bad. This is "Buy a Home Week," next week is "Baby Week" and the week following is "Clean Up and Paint Up Week."

War vs. Crops

To Our Farmer Friends:

As we are now at war with another country it is the duty of every citizen to do all he can to help our country. During the past there has been a great many dead animals that we have not been able to get on account of others taking off the hide and burying the body, which, unless done according to law is a fine offense, and is also a great waste as the body of all dead animals should be made into tankage to help feed our soils.

We use all the animals we can get for our Animal Matter Fertilizers and as tankage is very scarce at present every one who has a dead animal should notify us at once so that we may be able to keep up our supply of animal matter for our fertilizers and in this manner work for the benefit of both, as by this we can furnish the farmer the very best fertilizer made and he has done his part by letting us have his dead animals for this purpose.

Be sure and notify us when you have a dead animal, also when ready for your fertilizer write us or come in and see us. There is no better fertilizer made than ours and the price is as low as it is possible for us to make it.

JESUS WELCOMED AS KING. John 12:12-26

GOLDEN TEXT.—Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord, even the King of Isreal.—John 12:13.

The first part of this lesson is the record of the so called triumphal entry into Jerusalem, but it was really one of the saddest days of His life, for as He beheld the city He wept over it, because they knew not what He longed to do for them (Luke xix, 41-44). By riding upon the ass' colt He literally fulfilled the prediction in Zech. ix, 9, and the time draws near when He will just as literally fulfill the next verse and speak peace unto the nations and have dominion over all the earth. Then shall He make wars to cease in all the world, and the nations shall learn war no more (Ps. xlvi, 9; Isa. ii, 4). Then shall Zeph. iii, 14-17, be literally fulfilled. "The king of Israel, even the Lord, is in the midst of thee; thou shalt not see evil any more." Then shall all the world indeed go after Him (verse 19), for when the Lord shall make bare His holy arm in the eyes of all the nations all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God and shall turn unto the Lord, and all nations shall worship before Him (Isa. iii, 9, 10; Ps. xxii, 27, 28; Ixxvi, 9). All that He was prevented from accomplishing at His first coming shall surely be fulfilled at His coming again.

The desire of the Greeks to see Jesus and His reply are all suggestive of the time of which we have just been speaking and of the age of suffering through which we are still passing because of the rejection of Him and His kingdom and its consequent postponement. He is the wheat that had to die in order to bear fruit, and His followers must be content to travel the same road (verses 20-26). Instead of praying to be saved from the hour to which He had now come, His prayer was, "Father, glorify Thy name!" And the Father answered from heaven, "I have both glorified it and will glorify it again (verses 27, 28). To the people the voice sounded like thunder, but to Him the words were clear (verses 29, 30). Put with this the other two testimonies of the Father from heaven, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased," and, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye Him" (Matt. iii, 17; xvii, 5).

and may we become so well pleased in Him that the Father may be well pleased in us. Then shall we glorify God, which is the one thing we are here to do (I Cor. x, 31; I Pet. iv, 11). Because the righteous King is rejected the devil continues to be the prince of this world, the god of this world, and the whole world lieth in the wicked one (verse 31, xiv, 30; xvi, 11; II Cor. 4; I John v, 19, R. V.). Having to contend with such adversaries as the world, the flesh and the devil, we can better understand His sayings: "Ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars; nation shall rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be famines and pestilences and earthquakes in divers places. See that ye be not troubled. In the world, tribulation; in me, peace" (Matt. xxiv, 6, 7; John xvi, 33; Luke xxi, 25, 26). The past two years of these things in an unparalleled degree convince us that we have entered upon the closing years of the times of the gentiles, and, while His followers have always been expected to be ready to lay down their lives for His sake, in these perilous last days, when the food of the church is being so thoroughly leavened and the world in so many forms is being welcomed by the professing church, it is necessary to be very, very peculiar in the eyes of many and absolutely refuse to listen to any discrediting of any part of the Word of God, or to making light of anything taught therein, or to have any fellowship with anything in the church which is purely of this present evil age and not of God. We must learn to say with new emphasis, "To me to live is Christ," and all that is not directly from Him and for Him we cannot touch. It must be fully and always "Not I, but Christ," "Not I, but the grace of God," the self-life reckoned dead that the life of Jesus may be made manifest (Phil. i, 21; Gal. ii, 20; I Cor. xv, 10; II Cor. iv).

Bear with me for saying it so often. But when we consider that He never pleased Himself, never sought His own will or His own glory, how can we follow Him except by a similar renunciation of self? Anything like preferring the praise of men more than the praise of God cannot be tolerated (verse 43), and a desire to be thought original in anything we say or do is wholly ruled out by the fact that He said only what the Father told Him to say, and all His works were wrought by the Father in Him (verses 49, 50; xiv, 10). We may not expect all people to believe all we say, even though the message be wholly of God and He in some way set His seal upon it, for His message was not received by all, and He was despised and rejected. The devil is still blinding eyes and hardening hearts less people should believe and be saved. The two quotations from Isa. iii, 1, and vi, 9, 10, in verses 38-41 of our lesson chapter, the one from the last section of Isaiah and the other from the first, with the connecting phrase of verse 41, "Isaiah said again," are to me conclusive proof that the Spirit wrote, through one and the same Isaiah, the whole of his prophecy.

FAMOUS FRENCH SOLDIER VISITED INDIANA IN 1825

General Lafayette Touched Hoosier Shores When Traveling Through The Republic.

The issuing of a proclamation by Governor Goodrich setting apart Monday, May 7, as Lafayette day and calling upon the people of the state to make it an occasion for paying the tribute of gratitude and respect to the memory of the great and good friend that France gave the American colonists in the days of their struggle for independence, has brought out a fact known to comparatively few citizens of Indiana, that Lafayette, when he returned to America in 1825 and made a tour of the country, spent a day on the soil of the Hoosier commonwealth. The Indianapolis News, speaking of his visit, says:

"It was in May ninety-two years ago that General Lafayette, traveling in triumph through a rejoicing republic, touch Indiana shores at Jeffersonville. He was welcomed to the Indiana town with a burst of artillery, the waving of flags and a great banner that bore the significant inscription: 'Indiana Welcomes Lafayette, the Champion of Liberty in Both Hemispheres.' Young Indiana had known no such gathering before. Oratory that bore the sweet sentiments of gratitude made the brave Frenchman know that Indiana was indeed thankful. And now, in another May day ninety-two years later, Indiana is to rise and pay tribute in gold and gratitude to Lafayette, America's patriot-friend."

SOCIAL EVENTS

FRIDAY MAGAZINE CLUB.
At a meeting of the Friday Magazine Club, held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Seba A. Barnes on North Walnut street, a delightfully interesting program, dealing with nature and nature writers was given. Roll call responses were brief sketches of the lives of American nature writers, and concluding a business meeting the two program numbers were presented.

The first was given by Mrs. Gertrude Whitmer, on "Nature's Craftsman," which was an account of personal observations made of birds and animals. The habits of the woodland creatures; the manner in which the birds build their nests to protect themselves from their enemies, and the individual customs of some of these birds were told of in an interesting manner. The ingenuity of the beaver in the way in which they build their lodges or 'houses' to protect themselves from the trappers was also spoken of. Another interesting feature of the talk was an outline of the life history of the pearl-oyster, in which was explained how a grain of sand is wedged within the shell of the oyster; the way in which it irritates the animal, resulting in its being overspread with a watery substance which gradually hardens and produces the pearl; one of the most valuable natural resources of today.

Following this, Mrs. Anna Bollinger gave the story of the life of the great Scotch naturalist, John Muir, and his works as ranking foremost among the modern geologists. While Muir was born in Scotland and is of Scottish descent, he came to the United States at an early age, settled in the wilds of Wisconsin, where he became a lover of nature, and later was educated at the state university, receiving his degree as a geologist. Mrs. Bollinger continued her talk by explaining how, after completing his education, Muir sailed on the United States ship, Corwin, for Alaska, where he spent a number of years in study, discovering the Muir glacier.

Returning from Alaska, he spent a great deal of time in experimenting in forest preservation, and during this time traveled through Austria, South America and Africa. Mrs. Bollinger told of several of his experiences during his travels and sketched several of the books he wrote at this time. Among the most important of these are "The Mountains of California," "Stockwee, the Story of a Dog," "The National Park" and "A One Thousand Mile Walk to the Gulf," all of them dealing with natural discoveries. In the conclusion of the talk it was stated that Muir was a lover of all things wild; of all things that expressed nature, and it was because of these qualities that he is among the acknowledged great geologists of the last half century.

Concluding the program an informal reception and social hour was enjoyed, in which the hostess served an attractive luncheon.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED.

MAXON PHARMACY RECEIVES NEW LUNG MOTOR FOR INFANTS

Life Saving Device for Babies to be Placed at Disposal of Physicians of City.

The Infant Lungmotor, purchased by Maxon Pharmacy arrived in town today and was placed on display in the front window of the store, where it attracted much attention.

It will be placed at the disposal of physicians and nurses who will be the ones to use the new device in the saving of Jackson county's babies.

City officials and any others interested in the welfare of infants or the saving of lives are invited to attend a demonstration of the lungmotor which will be at Maxon Pharmacy May 4th afternoon and evening, at which time a trained nurse will demonstrate its use.

The device consists of two cyclinders in which metal pistons operate to place the correct amount of air into the infant's lungs and allow the bad air to flow out of the lungs through the device. Two tubes lead from the face mask to the infant Lungmotor and in no instance does the foul air come in contact with the pure air. The length of stroke which regulates the amount of air which is placed in the lung is determined by stops placed on the handle of the plungers.

It is Mr. Maxon's plan to keep the Infant Lungmotor in his store at 25 South Chestnut street, where any physician needing it can obtain it, day or night.

going to stop speeding and the Chief of Police will tell you that he has had orders and is going to stop the speeding. However, I am glad to have the co-operation of the council and have this come before you, as it shows the public that the police and the executive have your backing and support."

Ahlbrand, chairman of the public health committee, recommended that the police take the necessary steps to protect Seymour from the small-pox epidemic in Woodstock. It was stated that the county health officer and the secretary of the city board of health were establishing strict quarantines wherever the disease appeared and that the situation was well under control at this time. Some of the councilmen thought that the police ought to assist in enforcing the quarantine regulation and were instructed to arrest any one found guilty of violating a quarantine.

Rockstroh, chairman of the board of works, moved that a double fire hydrant be placed near the new plant of the Rider Packing Company. He said there are two "dead" ends in the mains in that vicinity and upon his motion the water company was ordered to connect them and install the hydrant. Under the city franchise the company is required to install one hydrant for each 300 feet of main.

Hodapp moved that new street lights be placed at the corner of McDonald and Beech streets, McDonald and Buckeye and Oak and Maple. Mayor Ross thought that changes could be made elsewhere in the city to provide the needed lights without installing the new ones. A comit-

CHAPTER I.

Midst the Hills of Judea.

THE setting sun, disappearing over the western hills toward the distant Mediterranean, cast lengthening shadows from the great fig tree which sheltered the archway in the garden wall. Far off in the distance a single trumpet sounded faint and indistinct. A nearer trumpet echoed and re-echoed the sound. A shepherd hidden in a nearby valley took up the silvery notes upon his own instrument and sounded the tidings that the day was o'er.

Upon the silken canopy roof of the house of Jesse, of the tribe of Judea, a maiden sat embroidering a girdle. She was fair and slender, with brownish hair, which hung in two long braids across her shoulders. But, while she plied her needle industriously and seemed devoted to her task, she ever and anon shaded her eyes to gaze wistfully out over the horizon. Far in the distance the sheep were peacefully grazing upon the hillside, even now being herded together by the watchful shepherds and their dogs in preparation for the coming of the night. To the east and to the west the maiden cast her eyes in vain, for what she

DANISH WOMAN REGAINS HEALTH

Tells Everybody What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Her.

Chicago, Ill.—"It gives me great pleasure to let others know that I improved in health with the first bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; after taking two bottles I am entirely well. Before taking it I could not do any kind of work without a pain in my back as I suffered so much from inflammation. I had headaches, was always tired and no appetite. Words cannot express my gratitude for the good your medicine has done me, and through me to my family. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women suffering from female troubles, particularly to Danish women."—Mrs. META DAMGAARD-MATZAN, 2137 Kimball Ave., Chicago, Ill.

It is positively true that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

NAOMI, COUSIN OF JETHER.

"Thou wilt not say aught to mine uncle against Jether?"

"But what of Jether?" she inquired tensely. "Can he be ill or sick?"

"He should not have left the flock unattended," said Shelah sternly. "Nay, he was not ill."

"But can aught have happened to him? Oh, Shelah, last night I dreamed he was in fearful peril, but of what I know not." Naomi, with an agonized sob which she vainly sought to suppress, seated herself on the stone edge of the well and watched Rissah as she bound up the broken leg of the lambkin.

Shelah chuckled significantly.

"Have no fear, good mistress Naomi," he commented wisely. "His worst danger lies in his father's wrath."

"What meanest thou?" cried Naomi quickly.

"On the road hither I met Ozen of Hebron, he who keeps an inn there, and Ozen told me Jether was there all night with a companion, Tola, an evil man whom all know well and far too well to think well of him," chuckled the elderly shepherd, pleased with his own heavy wit.

The young girl came to him anxiously and touched his arm.

"Shelah," she said softly, so that none might hear, "thou wilt not say aught to mine uncle against Jether?"

The shepherd lifted his hand as if in protest.

"Nay, he did great wrong to leave the flock alone while he drank through the night with Tola and his friends," he answered. "For a young man like Master Jether to neglect home, his flock, his duties to his father and to his elder brother, Gaal, who some day will be master here, is not right. I know full well the lad is headstrong, impetuous, but he should fear the wrath of his father if he continues in his evil ways."

The girl glanced about her nervously as one by one the laborers from the field, the tillers of the soil, the shepherds and their flocks passed into the courtyard and the sun sank lower upon the horizon.

"Please, Shelah, thou will aid me? Do thou hasten to Hebron and find Jether. He has forgotten that at sunset we celebrate the hallowed day. Hasten, I beg of thee."

The stolid shepherd shook his head sternly. A trumpet blew in the distance.

"Do not the trumpets sound on every hill? Do they not bid all cease from toil and hasten home to cleanse themselves before they partake of the holy meal? Listen! Do not the trumpets sound in Hebron? If Master Jether wills to come he'll come. Nay, nay, good mistress Naomi, I cannot speak to Jether louder with mine own voice than can these trumpets which sound from every hillside. Give me the lambkin, good Rissah. I will care for it henceforth."

The shepherd tenderly took the lamb in his arms and, followed by the dogs which had hung about his heels tearfully, went into the sheepfold. Rissah put her arms tenderly about the young girl and sought to comfort her.

"Were it not best that I should leave water in Master Jether's room and lay out fresh garments for him?" she inquired. "He may come with little time to spare."

"Oh, yes, Rissah! But what if he should not come?" replied Naomi, tearfully. "Suppose that he should not come? There are many wolves in these hills of Judea, and once I know that Jether killed a lion on foot, with but a knife as his only weapon. Suppose that last night when he failed to watch the sheep some evil mayhap befall him? Oh, Rissah, I shudder when I think that Jether may never return to us!"

The elder woman smiled reassuringly and caressed the young girl.

"I know thy secret, Mistress Naomi," she whispered. "Nay, do not start in surprise. Jether is a fine lad, beloved of the entire countryside, and not a maiden of Hebron but would be honored to have her hand sought in marriage by the younger son of Jesse. And thou art a beautiful girl, who must win the love of all who know thee. Yet one thing doth trouble me much, Mistress Naomi."

The girl half dried her tears and turned curiously.

"What dost thou mean?"

The aged servant hesitated, as if fearing to speak.

"Say on, Rissah. What hast thou in thy mind?"

"Much talk I have heard these past few months among the servants in thy uncle's household," said Rissah softly, glancing around to make sure that none might hear, "much talk have I heard that thy Cousin Gaal cast his eyes many times toward thee, far too often indeed to please those who know of thy regard for thy Cousin Jether."

Naomi sprang to her feet indignantly.

"Gaal indeed!" she cried, her eyes flashing fire. "Let me tell thee, Rissah, when Naomi is chosen in marriage it will be by one whom she herself doth select, not by the pious, elder, stern and hard hearted brother who doth treat our Jether so shamelessly. For him I care not nor ever will. But oh, Rissah!"

The girl's voice trembled, and it was with difficulty that she kept back her tears.

"Oh, Rissah, what if Jether come not? Last night I dreamed that on a sudden a black cloud swept across a sky as fair as this one. Jether was near me laughing in his happy way and scorned my warning. Then all at once the world was dark. I could not see him. When the cloud passed Jether was gone. Only his voice came to me from the distance, so sad, so full of pain. But what it was I could not tell, yet, oh, what pain was in it!"

Rissah tenderly embraced the young girl and led her toward the flight of stone steps leading upward to the roof and beyond that to the round dome.

"Come with me to the watch tower," she said softly. "Let us look toward will cost 3 cents in the future for a 2-cent postage stamp, and second class matter will cost 3 cents a pound instead of 1 cent. This will bring in about $75,000,000 a year to the government. It has already been practically decided that the income tax exemption will be $1,000 a year in the case of single men and $1,500 in the case of married men. A tax of 2 per cent, will be assessed on these incomes of $50,000 and up, and from there the surtax will rise rapidly. The highest tax probably will be 40 per cent on incomes of $1,000,000 or more.

With the British Armies in the Field, April 27—Germany's evident intention of trying for a "short, sharp, decisive struggle" as chronicled by neutral observers in Berlin, is daily making itself visible in black and white out here. Here is an extract from a captured letter, dealing with recruiting:

"There is a general clearance now. Everyone who can move his legs is passed fit for service in the field. Everybody is now being called up. Even those who at first were declared quite unfit have all been taken."

The reason for this levee en masse seems to be indicated in the following letters, also taken from captured Germans: "Altona—want is now only beginning—the hunt for coal and the shortage of food. Every day, turnips, not even cabbage. A serious epidemic of virulent smallpox (Schwarze Pocken) has broken out in Hamburg, but has not reached Altona yet."

"Berlin—We still have no coal here and last week there was no bread to be had without a struggle. I stood in the snow and cold wind for an hour and a half and was about the tenth in the queue. Suddenly the women rushed through the door like beasts of prey and splinters of glass flew about. I got in with the second batch and secured half a loaf—the very last piece of bread."

Many out here, with such documents constantly being brought to their attention, are of the opinion that the domestic crisis in Germany is responsible for her defiance of the United States and the world at large. They say it is hunger asserting itself, empty stomachs crying out to be filled regardless of consequences.

"Gaal indeed!" she cried, her eyes flashing fire. "Let me tell thee, Rissah, when Naomi is chosen in marriage it will be by one whom she herself doth select, not by the pious, elder, stern and hard hearted brother who doth treat our Jether so shamelessly. For him I care not nor ever will. But oh, Rissah!"

A team driven by George Hammond, a well known Jennings county farmer, took fright while descending the Indian Creek Hill on the North Vernon road and ran away. Mr. Hammond was thrown from the wagon and suffered a broken leg and severe bruises about the head. The team ran down the creek a short distance and then returned to the road. The wagon hit the bridge with such force that it was slightly damaged. Mr. Hammond is the son of Mrs. John Van Riper and is a half-brother of Paul Van Riper, superintendent of the Laporte public schools, who was notified of the accident and went to Hayden immediately. Mrs. Hammond has been seriously ill for some time and the news of the accident was a severe shock to her. Mr. Hammond is reported to be resting as well as could be expected.
